Take the next step in building monitoring.

We've found that technology, when coupled with sound processes and domain expertise, drives significant results in a building's performance and bottom line.

As an existing Buddy Ohm user, you've installed your Buddy Ohm equipment and are monitoring your building's energy usage. You may have found some anomalies on your own and are taking corrective actions. However, if you've found you don't have the time to dedicate to dig into your data to find opportunities to increase efficiencies and cut costs, a more custom, in-depth option like our Managed Services might be a better fit for you. Beyond subscribing to Buddy Ohm's portal use, our Managed Services provide access to domain expertise via our Buddy employees who offer advanced monitoring, analysis and insights from the data collected to help you achieve greater results.
